

Please leave the Indiana "No Call" law alone. Since being on the "no-call" list the interruptions of my dinners with my family, reading of books to the kids and sleep have stopped. There were times I would receive three calls an evening from telemarketers, sometimes from the same telemarketing company. On average I would receive ten to fifteen calls a week. Now, when I do get a call from a telemarketer, I tell them I'm on Indiana's "No-call" list and slam their phone in my ear. These companies don't have the common decency to apologize for their infraction. Please do not weaken or eliminate Indiana No-Call law.
